

Need a Latin Teacher? You Are Not Alone

Throughout North America there is a serious need for Latin Teachers. Each year, for lack of teachers, existing programs are cancelled, thriving programs are told they cannot expand, and schools that want to add Latin are unable to do so.

We are pleased to announce the creation of National Latin Teacher Recruitment Week, planned for March 1-5, 2004.

This effort, a cooperative venture of the American Classical League, the American Philological Association, and other regional and state classical organizations, seeks to engage all Classicists at all levels of instruction in the business of insuring that our Latin, Greek, and Classics pre-college classrooms have the teachers they need. We are currently an ad hoc committee of the National Committee for Latin and Greek, and as such receive support and assistance from every classics organization on the continent.

We are currently forming our committees and plans of action. To see what is underway visit our website at <http://www.promotelatin.org/nltrw.htm>. To request further information, volunteer, or suggest lines of action, contact the committee's chair, Kenneth Kitchell at kkitchel@classics.umass.edu.

NEED A

LATIN TEACHER?

YOU ARE NOT ALONE

Throughout North America there is a serious need for Latin Teachers. Each year, for lack of teachers, existing programs are cancelled, thriving programs are told they cannot expand, and schools that want to add Latin are unable to do so.

We are pleased to announce the creation of National Latin Teacher Recruitment Week, planned for March 1-5, 2004.

This effort, a cooperative venture of the American Classical League, the American Philological Association, and other regional and state classical organizations, seeks to engage all Classicists at all levels of instruction in the business of insuring that our Latin, Greek, and Classics pre-college classrooms have the teachers they need. We are currently an ad hoc committee of the National Committee for Latin and Greek, and as such receive support and assistance from every classics organization on the continent.

We are currently forming our committees and plans of action. To see what is underway visit our website at <http://www.promotelatin.org/nltrw.htm>. To request further information, volunteer, or suggest lines of action, contact the committee's chair, Kenneth Kitchell at kkitchel@classics.umass.edu.

Need a Latin Teacher? You Are Not Alone

Throughout North America there is a serious need for Latin Teachers. Each year, for lack of teachers, existing programs are cancelled, thriving programs are told they cannot expand, and schools that want to add Latin are unable to do so.

We are pleased to announce the creation of National Latin Teacher Recruitment Week, planned for March 1-5, 2004.

This effort, a cooperative venture of the American Classical League, the American Philological Association, and other regional and state classical organizations, seeks to engage all Classicists at all levels of instruction in the business of insuring that our Latin, Greek, and Classics pre-college classrooms have the teachers they need. We are currently an ad hoc committee of the National Committee for Latin and Greek, and as such receive support and assistance from every classics organization on the continent.

We are currently forming our committees and plans of action. To see what is underway visit our website at <http://www.promotelatin.org/nltrw.htm>. To request further information, volunteer, or suggest lines of action, contact the committee's chair, Kenneth Kitchell at kkitchel@classics.umass.edu.